

It encapsulates a Python object that implements the required functionality in Python code. When forward or backward are called, it dispatches calls to the Python object to perform computation.

C++

Extends

Those are extern (just interface) functions that will be defined in Cython. They will call corresponding methods in the Python object (PyObject* obj)

Python

Uses numpy or pure Cython to implement the kernel.

